

Gift is a fix for your tax

It's a scofflaw's dream - someone else paying to fight the system.

A Web site that guarantees to beat parking tickets - for a price, of course - began hawking gift certificates yesterday that help New Yorkers fight off pricey citations.

All it takes is someone willing to pay anywhere from $25 to $10,000 to possibly make a pal's parking ticket troubles disappear.

"Instead of a tie or a sweater, here's something you can really use," said Glen Bolofsky, president of parkingticket.com, who boasts of having beat more than $1 million in city parking fines over 20 years.

"Not a bad idea," said Tyrone Haamid, 39, of Harlem.

The city's Finance Department wasn't exactly impressed, noting New Yorkers can fight tickets online, in person or through the mail - at no cost.

Jose Martinez

Originally published on November 26, 2003

 Email a Friend

 Printer Friendly Version

VIVA
New York

Book
at AA.
And ea
to 1,0 AAAdv
bonus r

NO ON BOOKING

Richard
Ch

American